Original use	The mining hammer – “šlenger” was also called a “rajbel hammer”, because it was introduced to Idrija by the instructors from the Rajbel Mine. Such types of hammers were used for manual ore excavation. The miner held a steel drill or a tip in one hand (diagonally upwards). and would hit the tip with the hammer held in the other hand (from the bottom up). By using this technique of ore excavation, the impacts were stronger, their arms hurt less and the dust poured out of the bore on its own.
Present use	The described object is being preserved, secured and presented as an important monument of Idrija mining heritage with exceptional universal values. Visitors can view it within the permanent exhibition of the Idrija Municipal Museum “Five Centuries of the Mercury Mine and the Town of Idrija”. It can also be used for different types of mercury heritage promotions.
